THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

It Follows The Line

Washington, March 19.
THE more clearly the Communist saturation and control of the Congress of Industrial Organizations is understood, the more shocking seems the conduct of the public men who for political purposes of their own put the Government of the United States into partnership with this union and gave its leaders an authoritative voice in the Democratic party.

THE LATE President Roosevelt, of course, was the man primarily and chiefly responsible. But, unhappily, the subsequent attitude which he made an Administration policy, to a considerable extent, is being adopted by his successor, and the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Mr. Robert Hannegan, is actually, at this moment, supporting the CIO in its plans to "liquidate" various Democratic members of the House and Senate who have had the temerity to oppose such CIO-inspired measures. The Wallace full employment bill, the minimum wage bill and the housing subsidies, or who voted for the Case labor bill, denounced by the CIO and emasculated by the CIO-controlled Senate Labor Committee.

RECENTLY, Mr. Hannegan made a speech in Wilmington which could be construed in no other way than as an attack upon the men the CIO is planning to "purge" with its recently announced $6,000,000 fund. When the charge is made by such men as Mr. Donald Rieberg that the CIO is run by the Communists who have gotten themselves into its key positions, it is not made lightly or without sound basis. When Mr. Rieberg says that though Mr. Philip Murray is not himself a Communist but is a "captive" of the Communists, he is only stating a fact that should be obvious to any intelligent man who observes the record of the CIO closely enough to note the consistency with which the CIO follows the Communist line in this country, which line, of course, comes from Moscow.

WITHIN the last few days there have been two rather striking examples of this. One concerned Mr. Herbert Hoover, who belatedly was asked by the President for advice and aid in the terrific job of averting starvation in Europe. Almost immediately from Russia came the silly and outrageous charge that after the last war Mr. Hoover withheld food from the starving who lived in the countries (meaning Russia) which did not subscribe to Mr. Hoover's "reactionary views." And immediately following that the CIO agricultural union publicly echoed and repeated this degraded and absurd allegation.

THE other example concerns Mr. Churchill's speech. It brought a furious blast from Mr. Stalin and the Russian-controlled press. The Daily Worker here was even more violent but not more violent than the CIO publicity, which hewed exactly to the same line. The most

ACCEPT SITE GIVEN FOR 'VET' MEMORIAL

Alphonso Sodano Donates Ground For Building In Newtown Borough

A. L. NEW MEMBERS

NEWTOWN, Mar. 19.—A site offered by Alphonso Sodano for the veterans' memorial building here, and located between the First National Bank and Newtown Creek, has been accepted by veterans of World War I and II. Mr. Sodano, a local business man, and veteran of World War I, permitted building committees to investigate other possible sites before making their decision as to acceptance of his land gratis.

During the past month many tours of inspection were made and many meetings were held by both the committees of World War I and II veterans. Every possible site was taken into consideration and weighed very carefully as to its value to the community. The site selected seemed to be the most centrally located and the best-fitted to meet all the needs of Newtown and the surrounding communities.

Building plans will begin immediately, and Mr. Sodano, who donated the site, has also started to move materials to the site.

New members added to the roll of the Morrell Smith Post, American Legion, are: Earl H. Saurman, George F. Burns, John P. Ogelsby, Richard M. Borio, Dr. Raymond V. Hennessy, Harold J. Dibble, John E. Wall, Herbert J. Randall, Jr., Robert A. Titlow, William F. Blake, Morris L. Johnson and Alvin F. Bishop.

IS YOUR VOTE FOR SALE?

What the Truman Wage-Price formula means in the fields of economics, industry, business, jobs and wages is not yet clear. The more it is "explained," the harder it becomes to understand.

William Green, head of the AFL, says it is a crazy-quilt program worked out by incompetent advisers of the president.

After shorter explanations merely confused everyone who read them, the Chester Bowles group brought out a 36-page booklet entitled "Information about the Government's Wage-Price Policy." If you will get a copy of this, and turn to a footnote on page 25, you will find that the Federal bureaus charged with enforcing the plan are themselves in disagreement about what it means and how to carry it out.

But what it means in politics is clear enough. The Truman Administration offers to give voters a cash bonus in return for political support.

It is almost as if the White House spokesmen had taken the radio and said:

"If you voters will back us up, we will see that you are permitted to buy goods at less than cost."

If this proposition was made to individual voters, it would be bribery and corrupt solicitation, and would line the man who made it up for criminal conviction.

Because the White House is propositioning voters wholesale instead of individually, the matter is outside court jurisdiction—except for the Court of Public Opinion.

Many housewives are reported to have signed petitions asking that "dear Mr. Bowles" be kept where he can control prices.

ONE MAN'S OPINION - - -

By Walter Kierman (Distributed by International News Service)

Chester Bowles has issued another fighting statement but we still are wearing yellow shirts with short sleeves and long price tags.

Never before have so many been dressed for polo but the clothes horse is on us.

Nor does Chester know from his side of the mahogany what it is to outfit an apartment with future-delivery rugs and non-available beds.

There is nothing worse to sleep on than a four-poster when two of the posts are still price-bound in Grand Rapids.

Goods are in short supply with tempers to match but government controls will continue right or left.

Meanwhile atom scientists are following in the bomb craters of Alfred Nobel. Having given us their toy they now tell us it's our fault if we press the wrong button.

Nobel invented dynamite and spent all his profits on peace awards. He invented dynamite as an aid to man . . . but he forgot that mankind is loaded.

And you can't erase a mistake on a blotter.

EXONERATE DRIVER IN DEATH OF AN EX-G. I.

Widow of Former Service Man Testifies Briefly At
The Inquest

CRASH IN MID-BUCKS

A resident of Sodas, N. J., Byron K. Young, 33, was exonerated of all blame when a coroner's jury met to consider the case which involved a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Bucks Co. Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwall Heights, conducted the inquest in the fire station at Doylestown on Monday evening.

Young was operating a semi-trailer truck on the Lackawanna Trail, south of Rickert's Corner, January 11, when it collided with a car driven by Arthur B. Cook, 27-year-old ex-G. I. and bridegroom, who was instantly killed. His wife, Margaret, was badly injured.

Trooper Meyer H. Aulenbach, of the Penna. State Police, who investigated the tragedy and arrived at the scene seven minutes after it happened, testified the truck was going north and the Cooks were traveling south. The semi-trailer struck the bridge, then the car and later Jack-knifed. It was loaded with oil cans and drums.

Mrs. Margaret Cook, wife of the man who was instantly killed, testified all she remembers is seeing a truck approaching and that it got in their way. Mrs. Cook testified she wasn't driving the car.

William Beer, Jr., who is employed in a lumber yard near the scene of the crash, testified he saw the large truck traveling along the highway between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

The operator of the truck, who has been driving trucks for 15 years and is familiar with the road testified that when he first noticed the Cooks' car it was straddling the white line. "I pulled my truck into the right side of the bridge. I lost control of the truck when it hit the bridge and the impact released the pressure of the air-brakes," said Young.

Members of the jury were William L. Stackhouse, foreman; Carl Schmeig, Leroy E. Smith, Walter C. Schroeder, Harold F. Hellyer and Frank M. Stultz.

He suggested free trade privileges here for any nation on a reciprocal basis on condition that the contracting foreign governments parallel the U. S. wage structure. Tariffs, he said, should be used only to protect the wide distribution of high wages in industry, and for no other purpose.

FRENCH "WAR BRIDE" REACHES HULMEVILLE

Former Paulette Devaux Is Reunited with Husband,
Morris A. Smith

THRILLED WITH U. S.

HULMEVILLE, Mar. 19.—A French "war bride" who arrived in Hulmeville on Saturday is eagerly looking forward to her life in these United States.

The young woman who first saw America from the deck of the S. S. "Goethals" which docked in New York last week, is Paulette Devaux Smith, who in Paris, France, on Feb. 10, 1945, became the wife of Morris A. Smith, Trenton avenue, when Smith was serving with the U. S. Army in Europe.

Smith returned to this country in January and was granted his discharge from the army on February 11th last. His wife followed two months after his return to his native land.

Mrs. Smith, eager to be reunited with her husband, and anxious to see the land which was to become her home, was thrilled with her first sight of New York City. "It was a vision I'll never forget" she enthusiastically commented as she told of the afternoon sun streaming on the tall buildings and their seeming facets of windows; also of the statue of liberty which Mrs. Smith's

STEPS TAKEN TO FORM A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HERE

Temporary Steering Committee of Ten Named to Outline Organization

30 ATTEND MEETING

Representatives of U. S.
Chamber of Commerce
Address the Group

Conceived in the minds of nine men who met six weeks ago, nurtured by 18 men who met two weeks later, a chamber of commerce for Bristol was born last evening. Approximately 30 representative men affiliated with industry and business in Bristol decided that such an organization is needed here and will be of benefit to the community.

Steps leading up to the organization of a chamber of commerce were discussed pro and con at a dinner-meeting held in the Keystone Hotel. Donald Marcellus and John N. Stone, U. S. Chamber of Commerce, outlined the initial steps to be taken in perfecting such an organization, reviewed some of the objects which might be accomplished and gave other valuable points and suggestions to those interested.

The meeting was presided over by A. H. Queen, one of the spearheads in the movement.

The Rev. Edward Yeomans, pastor of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, invoked the blessing.

A temporary steering committee of 10 was named to further perfect the organization and this committee chosen by secret ballot consists of A. H. Queen, McCrory Store, chairman; E. Leslie Helwig, Rohm and Haas Company; William Begley, attorney; Clyde J. Waterman, Bancroft-Hickey Co.; James Wilson, Edgely Brass Company; H. N. Crooker, Manhattan Soap Co.; Edgar J. Spencer, Spencer's Furniture; T. E. McClemmy, Standard Hardware Co.; Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., Burgess, and Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools.

A meeting of the steering committee will be held at seven o'clock Thursday evening in the municipal building.

It will be the duty of the steering committee to select a meeting place, suggest a program of activity, plan of organization of a permanent body and outline a financial set-up.

In his remarks Mr. Marcellus informed that a body such as a chamber of commerce generally has five main objectives: industrial development, agricultural development, civic and community development, and retail and wholesale trade service. He said the average income of a chamber of commerce is approximately $5,000 in a community having a population of from 10,000 to 25,000. Out of a total of 150 organizations reporting in a survey on membership it was ascertained that the groups had an average membership of 276.

Being invited to make a few remarks former U. S. Senator, Joseph R. Grundy described briefly similar moves made in Bristol, citing the organization of the Bristol Improvement Company which brought to Bristol a number of industries, and then during later years the formation of a chamber of commerce of which the late A. Weir Glikson was the head and Thomas Scott, secretary, that advertised for new industries which resulted in the Rohm & Haas Company selecting Bristol as a site for its present plant here.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Iran has instructed her Ambassador to the United States to present to the Council the issue arising out of the continued presence of Russian troops in that country, it was learned. Tension in Teheran eased despite the usual flock of rumors.

Prime Minister King told the Canadian Parliament last night that a Russian Embassy cipher clerk had informed him that Russian agents were building up a fifth column in Canada and that the country was to be used as a base for obtaining information of great importance to the United States and Britain as well.

In Moscow the Supreme Soviet unanimously adopted Russia's new five-year plan after hearing a leading Russian scientist stress the necessity of "mastering the technique of liberating atomic energy," which was no "easy" task, President Truman named Bernard M. Baruch as the United States representative on the UNO Atomic Energy Committee.

"World conditions" were reported to have caused a change of heart in Congress and the unaltered extension of Selective Service for at least six months was forecast.

ALL HIRING, NO FIRING

In the seven months since Japan's surrender a large part of this country's military forces has been demobilized. Unhappily, there is no sign in Washington of a corresponding move to demobilize the army of civilian employees mustered to meet the needs of war.

The number of civilians employed in the executive branch of the Federal Government, exclusive of War Department civilian employees outside of the continental United States, actually rose by 2,423 in January. The War and Navy departments have been cutting down their staffs and this has brought down the overall total. But it is disturbing to find that the remaining war and peacetime agencies gained more than 30,000 employees during the month.

Some growth in the Federal establishment over the pre-war years is inevitable in the nature of bureaucracy. But it is inconceivable that a government which got along with 920,000 civilian employees before the war—when every department was overstaffed
—should require nearly 3,000,000
now.

Senator Byrd, chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Expenditures, points to one reason why the government is making so little progress in trimming its inflated wartime payrolls. He says that some agencies are showing an unwillingness to dismiss temporary war service employees to make room for returning veterans. The nation's obligation to veterans is clear. But there is no similar obligation to find other government jobs for employees displaced to make room for veterans.

These excess employees must be dropped. Unless the Federal establishment is cut down to reasonable size and unless unnecessary spending is eliminated,
there will be little hope of balancing the budget or easing the present heavy tax burden.

HIGHWAY TO ALASKA

Waste and careless planning in wartime are illustrated by tentative plans to replace the abandoned highway from Edmondton to Alaska with one from Seattle to the northern territory. The abandoned road cost $115,000, 000, the new one would cost $15,000,000. It would use a part of the route of the abandoned road.

The Edmondton artery is through country not passable in winter. The proposed route from Seattle and Vancouver through British Columbia to the Yukon
where it joins the old Alkan highway would be passable every month of the year. It traverses a valley and is protected on the east by the Canadian Rockies and on the west by coastal ranges.

Pacific port cities oppose construction of the road. They fear it would reduce sea-borne traffic.

The thirteen-month calendar proposal is being revived. But many think that twelve months of this kind of a year is plenty.

"Help keep us bureaucrats in power, and we will let you buy your groceries for only part of their actual cost—and push the rest of the bill over to your grandchildren."

That is precisely what his price-control plan boils down to. Take butter—if you can find it. The grocery-store price is 12 cents less than the real cost of making it and selling it to you.

Where does the rest of the money come from? From subsidies. The government borrows money, and pays it to the various persons, from the farmer down, who otherwise would lose so much at the retail price that they couldn't stay in business. The subsidies go to increase the national debt. This debt is the heritage we are leaving our children and grandchildren—just as our own forebears left us a heritage of liberty which has been sliding out of our fingers during the present generation.

Put on that basis—and it is the right basis to put it on—most persons will agree that they would rather pay their own bills than push them off for their sons' and daughters' children to wrestle with.

The Truman Wage-Price scheme is called "price control." This is not the right name. Broadly speaking, there are two ways by which prices can be controlled, and the Truman Administration is not using either of them.

One way of lowering prices is to reduce costs of production. But the White House has greatly raised them through its insistence that favored labor unions get large wage increases regardless of the effect on national economy.

The other way to lower prices is through competition; that is, by increasing production to a point where each manufacturer has to try to undersell his competitors.
But the Truman Administration has increased the production of nothing, and made most of the commodities it has meddled with extremely scarce.

Instead of being a price-control program, the Truman plan is a subsidy program. The various types of subsidies the government is using are becoming fantastically large. The direct subsidies are estimated at more than two billions of dollars a year.

But there are many indirect subsidies. There are insurance funds in Washington which have to be replenished every year. Why? Because they are disguised subsidies. So with innumerable types of loans; where they offer no promise of ever being repaid, these have the effect of subsidies.

Year after year, the Republican Party used to run the entire Federal government—and run it well—on less than the one item of subsidies now costs.

If the nation were prosperous, and public credit were not shaky, it still would be wrong in economics and wrong in morals for people to try to pass part of their grocery bills over to unborn children.

In a time like today, with the government over-spent and over-mortgaged, such a policy threatens national bankruptcy—and national bankruptcy would mean the individual bankruptcy of virtually every person in the United States.

There are many reasons why subsidies are dangerous.
One of them concerns inflation. The causes of inflation are numerous; one is too much money in circulation, another is too much government debt, and another is over-spending by the government. Subsidies make all these worse.

Prices are not a cause of inflation, but an effect. They are like a thermometer, which rises when the temperature increases. Fooling with a thermometer doesn't make a room warmer or cooler. Fooling with prices doesn't control inflation.

Why does the White House insist on a program so dangerous, and involving so much deception? Perhaps they are honestly mistaken; but that doesn't help the American people. Perhaps the whole scheme is merely a plan to find jobs, running the program, for the two million or so public employees hired to win the war and whom the President otherwise would be forced to drop.

At any event, the scheme is nothing more than a bold offer, backed up by the White House, to swap phony prices for political support—to let citizens buy below cost and shove the balance over to the public debt, where it can be liquidated in one or the other of two fashions;
it can be charged to your children's children in tax bills,
or it can be dissipated through inflation.

The Great Game of Politics

unrestrained attacks in Washington on the Churchill idea came from the CIO Senator, Claude Penner, of Florida, and Mr. Henry Wallace, when the CIO wanted for Vice-President and now wants for President. And, while a thousand Communists bowed Mr. Churchill at the City Hall, a CIO union with insulting placards picketed the Waldorf-Astoria, where he spoke Friday night.

PLENTY of other examples could be given. Take it right down the line and Communist publicity and CIO publicity are almost identical.
On practically every public measure and issue the CIO and the Communists stand together. The last long and convincing Neither denial of the dominating Communist influence in the CIO nor the usual denunciation of those who refer to it as "red baiting"
and "reactionaries" alter the facts.
The bulk of the CIO members are,
of course, not Communists, but the fellows in the key positions are—or so close to being Communist that it amounts to the same thing.

AND, it seems timely to recall that former Attorney General Francis Biddle, himself an extreme left winger and the gentleman who jubilantly described the New Deal as a labor party headed by an able politician, when called upon to define the aims of the Communist party here, wrote that "the Communist party teaches the violent overthrow of existing governments, including the United States. It writes, circulates, distributes and displays printed matter advising such overthrow."

THIS is the party which, Mr. Richberg says, in effect, has taken control of the CIO. And the CIO is Government has been conceiving as a close ally and friend. To have acquiesced in it—makes the American people seem the prize saps of all time. Banned by its propaganda and the breast-beating demagogues who profit by and support it, the public is permitting its government to be largely run by a group avowedly committed to destroy it. That, when the realities are faced, is what it amounts to.

Fortune smiles, on those who Indications pointed to a referen-

By the Rev. T. Kohlmeier

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

Dearest Lord Jesus, we come before Thee confessing that we, like Simon Peter, have shamefully denied Thee on more than one occasion. We pray Thee to bring us also to true repentance, to weep bitterly over our sins as Peter did. Let us also have the assurance that Thou wilt graciously forgive every sin, since it was for all our sins Thou didst die. Thou art the Lamb of God that takest away the sins of the world, and to Thee alone we flee for pardon and peace. Amen.

Speaking English quite readily, although occasionally searching for a word to express her eager pleasure at what she has already seen and enjoyed in America, the young woman had a fine introduction to New York, the metropolis of the new world, as she and her husband spent two days there after the young wife's arrival.

Reaching Hulmeville Mrs. Smith met for the first time her step-son, Morris, Jr., aged 12, whom she has learned to call by his nickname "Mickey." "Mickey" is aiding the one he quickly learned to call "mother" by teaching her words for some objects which are new to her or whose terms she has not yet learned.

Soldier Smith and the former Miss Devaux first met in the late summer of 1944. During visits to the Devaux home in the evenings Smith taught the young woman many English terms, they carrying on their conversation by means of a French-English dictionary. Six months later they were married in Paris, the Devaux home being on the outskirts of that city. The war bride was employed in what she terms the "war office" in Paris. It was shortly after the liberation of Paris that the two made their acquaintance. The bride's parents and three brothers still live near Paris, one of her brothers having served in the army during the war.

With vivid memories of some of the horrors of war, Mrs. Smith dislikes to think of the bombs which dropped so close to her home. One which destroyed a house nearby, hurtled a piece of shrapnel which ended in death for a 13-year-old neighbor girl; and at another time a young woman, 24-years-old, who lived near the Devaux home, was so badly injured that she will be affected for the rest of her life-time.

The Smiths are making their home with Mr. Smith's father, William Smith, here.

Because of the fact that many of the stores containing balloting jars are closed at noon on Wednesday, it will be necessary to close the contest at 11 a. m. Wednesday, so that all children have an equal time for ballots.

Final results will be posted in the window at 312 Mill street, Wednesday afternoon, and mothers of the six winners are notified to take their children to the stage of "The Pep Parade" Wednesday evening. Prizes will be awarded at 8.05 p. m. Pictures of the six winners will remain on display at 312 Mill street the remainder of the week. Pictures of all other contestants may be received by parents there on Thursday.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

BOSTON—(INS)—Spot checking of 200 large and small employers in Massachusetts indicates that re-conversion in the state is ahead of schedule. The favorable progress is believed to be due in part to the high diversification of industry and comparatively small production of wartime products in Massachusetts.

11 PER CENT INCREASE
DURHAM, N. H.—(INS)—A survey conducted in New Hampshire discloses an increase of 11 per cent in prices was received by farmers in the state in 1945 as compared with 1944. The greatest advance was in apples, hay and potatoes; the least in dairy products.

HARRIMAN WINS PLAYOFF HONORS IN YOUTH LEAGUE

3rd Ward Eagles Defeated
By Score of 57 to 29

500 FANS ATTEND

Sixth Ward Team Took The Lead and Held It
Throughout

Using its height to an advantage, the Harriman A. C. basketball five won the playoff championship of the Bristol Youth League by whipping the Third Ward Eagles, 57-29, last night, on the Mutual Aid floor.

The largest crowd of the season, estimated at 500 fans, saw the sixth ward team take the lead at the outset and keep it throughout the game. Every possible space of the Mutual Aid hall was filled and extra seating was used on the stage.

The Eagles played spirited ball throughout, despite the difference in the score. For three quarters they managed to hold the Harriman lead to within seven points. However, towards the end of the third session and all during the final period, the ultimate winners scored at will with the Third Ward defense crumbling more all the time.

At the beginning of the final period, the Eagles lost their star scoring ace, "Johnny" Rodgers, via the personal foul route and then lost one of its guards in Johnny Ennis who injured his ankle. But the loss of these two players did not atone for the Eagles' loss as Harriman had already begun to mount its score.

Leaders in the winners' attack were "Johnny" Pindar and Stan Lelinski. Pindar shook the cords for six double-deckers and four out of four fouls for 16 points while Lelinski racked up 15 counters, making seven double-deckers and but one out of seven foul tries. "Bill" Foltz was close behind with 12 points.

"Ed" Donnelly was high man for the losing quintet, scoring a quintet of twin-pointers and a foul for 11 points while "Bill" McGerr tabbed eight points.

Marvin Walters played a fine guarding game and succeeded in holding down Rodgers to a pair of field goals and the same number of fouls.

Thursday night, the Harriman team will meet St. Joachim's, champions of the Trenton Playground League, on the Mutual Aid floor.

RAMBLERS DEFEAT ARDMORE ACES

In a close and hard-fought game, the Ramblers, last season's Bristol Youth League champions, won out over the Ardmore Aces, 55-49, last night on the Mutual Aid floor.

Team-work gave the Ramblers the triumph. They passed the ball with near perfection and every player on the team had at least a point.

"Dezzy" DeLise paved the way for the Ramblers' triumph with 17 points. He scored five field goals in the first half to aid the Fifth Ward team to amass a 29-23 lead. DiMarco, of the visitors, matched DeLise in scoring in the first half and scored an extra goal in the second half to make him high man for the night with 19 points.

"Lefty" DiTanna had 11 points in the victory while Favorosa had 9. Caucei played a wonderful guarding game.

SCHOOL HAS OPEN HOUSE

With "open house" being conducted at Bristol high school last evening, parents of high school students visited the school to discuss various problems with the instructors. The sole purpose was to help to keep to a minimum the number of failures during the last semester. The teachers desired to explain to the parents in sufficient time the status of pupils in certain subjects so that efforts might be increased during the next few months, eliminating necessity for pupils repeating grades. A better understanding of the girls' and boys' needs in pursuing their studies was thus given the parents.

THE MIRACLES OF COMMUNICATION

Pioneered by the Bell Telephone Laboratories

Jules Verne had a prophetic and eerie imagination.

The Bell System has the Bell Telephone Laboratories!

Here, among a maze of apparatus, instruments, and machinery, hundreds of scientists and engineers, using fundamental and applied research, discover, appraise, develop, and make practical fantastic, new miracles of communication.

These men dream of the future. Then they make their dreams come true.

Their one objective is to make communication ever better and better, ever faster and faster—and more economical—for you.

And one of the objectives of our $150,000,000 expansion program is to make available, as fast as we can, their many new developments.

Marvelous things are on the way, some of them in their earliest scientific stages. Others are ready for us, and you

Long distance dialing, for example, is now a fact as operators dial direct from long distance switchboards to telephones in far-away places.

It will be possible to talk by telephone from automobiles, taxis, trucks, and buses.

If you're deaf, you'll learn to read "pictures of speech," the Laboratories' new electronic development.

A new cable—called coaxial—already shoulders an unheard of number of conversations simultaneously, and will play a stellar role in bringing television into your home.

Even before the war, Bell Laboratories engineers were experimenting extensively with radio waves—called microwaves—only a few centimeters long. The possibilities of microwaves are almost unbelievable.

It's our job to make all these new developments available to you... and the best news we have for you is that we are actually at work on all this today.

Here are the Three Objectives of our $150,000,000 EXPANSION PROGRAM

1. To end all waiting lists for telephone service.
2. To provide the people of this State—city people and farmers—with finer and finer telephone service.
3. To make available the many new developments in communication, pioneered by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.
